

Russell Wilgis House
1927 Churchville Road
Bel Air, Maryland 21014

Probably built in the second half of the 19th century, this house was once a tavern called "Wayside Inn." Built on four tracts: "Isaac and John's Lot," "Howard's Forest," "Matthew's Neighbor," and "Neighborhood," the house may have already been built in 1869 when Jeremiah Y. Maynadier sold 18 acres to Catherine Carroll for $1682.50. The property then changed hands frequently, belonging to Johanna Tobin in 1870, John Swope in 1878, Catherine Harward in 1880, and finally to the Hambys before the Wilgises bought it in 1927.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Two stories and el-shaped, this mid-19th century frame house is located on the south side of MD Rte. 22, between Fountain Green Road (MD Rte. 543) and Shucks Rd. Now covered in asbestos shingles, the house has a gable roof and is set on a low stone foundation. Three bays wide and one room deep, the main section has an exterior brick chimney on the west end. The west side of the el, which is two bays long and one room wide, and the west end of the main section are flush. At the juncture of the el is a one-story, shed-roofed addition. Except for the first story windows on the north facade which have 6/1 sash, all windows have 6/6 sash with narrow, beaded trim. They apparently had shutters at one time.

Spanned by a hip-roofed porch, the north facade of the main section has an entrance in the center bay with windows ranged symmetrically around it. The porch has turned posts and carved brackets. The east side has a six light gable window, one window in the second story, and two in the first.

The west end has two windows in both stories flanking the chimney.

The south facade, covered on the west by the el, and in the first story by the shed-roofed addition, has two windows in the second story.

The north el has one window in each story of the west side, and one window in the second story of the east side. The south end has one window in the second story and two in the first.

The shed-roofed additon has a vestibule in the west and a six-light window in the east of the south facade. There is one window in the east side.

Inside, the plan has two rooms with a central staircase in the west room. When the house was used as an inn, there was a staircase in the northeast corner of the east room. The basement joists are full logs with bark on them. The attic has sawn rafters with a ridge.
